ALL THE TROOPS UNDER CANVAS

Arrival of Fourth Brigade Completes Division Encampment. Four Troops of Cavalry Arrive. General Camp News Notes.

With the arrival today of Battery B and the three regiments of the Fourth Brigade, Camp Edwin S. Stuart has received all the soldiers assigned to it for this year's encampment and 7100 men are now under canvas.

The Ninth and Twelfth regiments came in on Monday afternoon, the four troops of cavalry in the evening, the last of them not getting into camp until about half past ten. Early this morning the Thirteenth regiment and Battery B went into camp and later the Fourth, Sixth and Eighth regiments reached their camp site south of the Peach Orchard.

Daily drills, inspections and maneuvers are being held. The men are being given practices in the pitching of shelter tents, advance and rear guard duty, marching, protecting against imaginary foes and all the preliminaries of the war game. The first evening concert was held Monday evening and drew the usual number of people from town though the difficulty of reaching camp kept many away.

The detail of six members of the State Constabulary arrived in Gettysburg on Monday and went on duty Monday evening. They will assist the local police in protecting citizens and their property. The ungentlemanly conduct of a large portion of the militia calls for rather stringent measures on the part of local authorities and even private citizens have found it necessary to call a halt on the rude conduct of the men as they traverse the town streets.

Word was received at camp on Monday afternoon that Captain Blackford, of West Chester, had been drowned in Illinois where he was kept by business and was away from camp on leave of absence. Captain Blackford was quartermaster on General Price's staff and described by all who knew him as a fine type of gentleman. One company from the Sixth regiment was ordered to act as a military escort at his funeral in West Chester and General Price also had a member of his staff present.

There is not a little talk on the part of the guardsmen on account of what they term nine days' duty for eight days' pay. The various commands are ordered to open their camp at 7.30 on a certain morning. This practically requires them to come to the day previous. For this they get no pay and are allowed no rations with the result that the men must either take some of the rations for their second day in camp and apply on the first day's meals or else purchase their own food for the first few meals in camp. The fact that the state allows no pay or rations for the advance details is also a subject which arouses the indignation of the guardsmen.

Tommy Livingstone, the Pittsburgh newsboy who was hurt at Harrisburg while on his way here, is recovering in one of the field hospitals and it is expected will be able to take up his work again if he is given very careful attention.

Many of the men in camp have seen long service in the Guard. Lieutenant Colonel A. L. Williams and Captain Charles F. Hess, both First Regiment men, are now enjoying their twenty-eighth camp. Captain Hugh Craig has been quartermaster of the First City Troop for forty one years and is at this camp in the same capacity.

The mud at camp has caused a great deal of discomfort. There has been difficulty in securing baggage promptly with the result that coats were not on hand and the men were practically compelled to lie down on the soft ground if they wanted to get any sleep. The auto trucks have experienced a great deal of difficulty in the muddy roads and have frequently "gotten stuck."

The First Brigade has had much trouble with its water supply. At first they could not get sufficient pressure and when this was remedied they found the water so cloudy that it was thought wise to issue an order directing that all water be boiled. An analysis was made and the water found to be perfectly pure but the boiling is being done as an extra precaution.

The Riley medal for the officer or enlisted man of the National Guard of Pennsylvania in longest continuous service at the time of a division encampment will be awarded to General J. Lewis Good, of Philadelphia this week.

The Riley medal is one of the most coveted decorations in Guard service in the United States. Only long and continuous service of the highest order can win it and it has been given only four times. It was established by provisions of the will of General William Moffatt Riley, of Philadelphia, and Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart was the first recipient. Others who

CHAUTAUQUA TO START SATURDAY

Plan on Foot to Take Assembly from Present System of Local Management and to Place Gettysburg on Regular Circuit.

The second annual Gettysburg Chautauqua Assembly will open on Saturday evening, July 27, in the big tent which will be erected on Prep. campus Wednesday. The attractions for the ten day period were announced in these columns some months ago. During this year's Chautauqua an effort is going to be made to put the local attraction in the circuit which included a number of similar assemblies in this section during the early Summer months. This would relieve local parties from all financial responsibility other than guaranteeing a certain number of tickets, the management of the general circuit engaging all talent, providing the tent and so on.

A very much higher grade of attractions can be secured in this way than by purchasing talent "retail." For instance, the Italian band which played at Hanover was secured by the central agency for $215 while a single engagement from a point outside of the Chautauqua circuit would cost $500. Other attractions can be secured proportionately cheaper.

The Chautauqua people who managed these assemblies in this section some weeks ago are specially anxious that Gettysburg be included in their circuit for next year and guarantee that if this is done they will use Gettysburg as the center, put their very best talent here and, in addition, advertise their Chautauqua bill elsewhere as "the same which appeared at Gettysburg," thus giving the town a very large amount of valuable advertising.

The bill for the opening night Saturday is a lecture on "The Dawn of Plenty" by L. R. Houghton. It will be illustrated with still and motion pictures.

ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES

Anniversary services will be held at the George W. and Agnes Hoffman orphanage, Thursday, near Two Taverns.

The anniversary address will be delivered by Hon. C. W. Myers, of the auditor general's department, Harrisburg. Rev. Edward O. Keen, pastor of the St. Paul Reformed church, Waynesboro, will make the anniversary prayer.

Following these services, the new administration building, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Helb, York, will be dedicated.

Rev. Samuel H. Stein, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, York, representing the donors, will present the building. Rev. E. Bruce Lytle, a member of the board of directors, will accept the structure.

WILL IMPROVE PROPERTY

Max Davis has purchased the property of Mrs. Ellen Diller on Carlisle street through the Runk and Peckman agency. Terms private. The property adjoins that of Miss Laura Spangler at the corner of Centre Square and Carlisle street. Mr. Davis will convert the first floor into two store rooms, with large plate glass fronts. The second floor will be made into flats. Mr. Davis does not intend to move back to Gettysburg and hopes to rent the store rooms to other parties. He is now successfully engaged in business in Pittsburgh.

MISS ELIZA MARTIN

She is survived by her two brothers, Joseph and Jerome Martin, both of this place.

Funeral notice later.

The medal is presented through the Governor and the adjutant general and there is always an interesting ceremony connected with it.

GIVES IMPORTANT LEGAL DECISION

Important Opinion Handed Down by Judge Swope in Regard to Assigned Estates. First Decision on Question in the State.

A decision of far-reaching importance has lately been rendered by the Common Pleas Court of Adams County to the effect that since the passage of the Act of June 19th, 1911, a person who makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors, is not entitled to claim the benefit of the $300.00 exemption law, if any creditors hold notes of such person containing waivers of exemption clauses. It is the first decision on this question in Pennsylvania.

Under former laws, a person could contract debts, giving his creditors notes or other obligations in which he agreed to waive all right and claim, to his $300.00 exemption out of his estate, and, if he then made an assignment for creditors, could claim such exemption notwithstanding his agreement not to do so.

In the opinion filed by Judge Swope it is held, that "under the law as it now is, in reference to the $300.00 exemption, an insolvent assigning his property for the benefit of his creditors, is left just as his contract obligations find him."

The decision was rendered in the case of assigned estate of William Weisenale.

SISTER AND BROTHER

DIE ONLY A DAY APART

Two deaths occurred in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Esaley, Hanover, within 24 hours and the family is severely afflicted. Bernice May, a daughter, aged 16 years, died of diphtheria Saturday night, and Ruel Clinton, a son, aged 8 years, died Monday morning at 1.30 o'clock. Several of the nine children of the family, had been sick for two weeks, complaining of sore throat, but the parents thinking it only quinsy, administered home treatment until last Friday, when Dr. J. H. Bittinger was called in and pronounced the disease diphtheria. Nearly all of the children have been ill, and this time two, Earl, aged 15 years, and Vera, aged 14, are in a serious condition, although hopes are still entertained for their recovery.

The body of Bernice was privately interred in Mt. Olivet cemetery on Sunday afternoon, and the burial of Ruel took place Monday afternoon. Rev. M. J. Roth, of Trinity Reformed church, officiated.

PENN GROVE CAMP

About 200 persons occupied cottages at Penn Grove Camp Sunday. There were 119 at the Sunday School session, which did not convene until 11.30 on account of the rain. In the afternoon everybody was imprisoned in their cottages by the drenching rain, which did much damage in the neighborhood. In the evening a song service was held, and enjoyed by about 100 persons.

During the year some of the electric wires were cut from the trees and carried away. They are now being replaced and the electric appliances for lighting the ground are being put in order by Joseph Hutchinson, Jr.

Rev. Dr. Shannon, the evangelist, will conduct services each day until the opening of camp, Friday, July 26.

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC

St. Mary's Parish, of McSherrystown, held their annual picnic at Witmer's Park on Sunday. There was a large crowd in attendance, and all had a fine time. Egg races, bag races, hit the coon, dancing and other sports were engaged in by young and old. Dinner and lunches were served during the day and it was a general "home coming" for many former parishioners.

The picnic was pronounced a success both as to enjoyment and also in a financial way.

GRADUATES' REUNION

The common school graduates of Adams county have selected Thursday, August 1, as the date for their annual reunion. The Chautauqua managers have arranged for a special educational program at 2.00 p. m., which is to follow a business meeting at 10.30 a. m. All meetings will be held in the tent and arrangements have been made to accommodate those bringing lunch.

PERSIAN STUDENT PREACHES

Mr. Shuman, a Persian, a student at the Reformed Theological Seminary mission house, Shelbygan, Wis., Sunday evening filled the pulpit for Rev. George Butz, pastor of the Littlestown Reformed church.

NEARBY ROAD IS IMPROVED

Road between Gettysburg and Harrisburg is Very Much Improved by Removal of Objectionable Bumpers. Other Work.

Thanks to the energetic manner in which engineers of the State Highway Department have taken hold of the work of improving highways leading to Gettysburg, some of the roads over which automobilists travel to this place, are in the best shape they have been for years. Several gangs of men have been at work removing the "water breaker's" which have lined the roads and travel will be greatly expedited.

The work has been in charge of Engineers C. W. Hardt and E. S. Frey, both of them men of experience in highway work and the way they cleared the road between Harrisburg and Gettysburg by way of York Springs was close to a record. Persons traveling to Gettysburg from Harrisburg will use the state road to Mechanicsburg and then go to Shephardstown and then go to York Springs. About fifty men have been employed on this road.

Mr. Hardt's men are now engaged in repairing the state highways between Carlisle and Mt. Holly Springs, Mt. Holly to Adams county line, one gang working each way; Newville and Doubling Gap in Cumberland county and will take up this week the roads between Carlisle and Sterrett's Gap and Shippensburg by way of Walnut Bottom. In Franklin county extensive repair work is going on between Chambersburg and Greencastle.

MRS. CHARLES W. CLINE

Mrs. Zula Florence Cline, wife of Charles W. Cline of Gardeners Station, died at her home at 4.15 Monday afternoon from lock jaw and convulsions, aged 40 years, 9 months and 23 days.

She was a daughter of the late John C. Group, and is survived by her husband and three children, Jennie, 4 years; Rhoda, 6 years, and John David, 4 years, also by her mother, Mrs. John C. Group, of Idaville, and the following brothers and sisters, Amos R. Group, Idaville; Mrs. Clara Groenewer, Gardeners; Mrs. Jennie Hoffman Idaville; Misses Grace and Ethel Group, Idaville.

Funeral Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, meeting at the house. Services and interment at Cline's church, Rev. Mr. Stine officiating.

AN ANCIENT MILL BURNED

Lightning early Wednesday morning struck and set fire to the mill of Samuel D. Reifsnider, about a mile east of Frederick. The dwelling of Mr. Reifsnider, just across the road, was practically destroyed and it is rebuilt will begin with the second story. The Reifsnider mill was over a century old. It was 50 by 80 feet, of stone. The mill had a capacity of 25 barrels of flour daily and was run every day. In about an hour after the fire started the four floors were consumed, only the stone walls were left standing.

The loss will probably be about $8,000, with $4,300 insurance.

WOMAN STEPS ON RATTLER

Mrs. Gus Lehman, who lives near Churchtown, climbed out of a tree while picking fruit, and as she placed her foot on the ground she felt something soft wriggle under her. When she looked she found it was a five foot rattlesnake. The woman's shoe held the reptile a few inches back of the head and prevented its fangs from reaching her ankle.

Mrs. Lehman quickly looked around for a stone, found one without lifting her foot, and then beat the snake's head to a pulp.

TO TAKE OVER LAND

The State Forestry Department will soon take over the Pine Grove Furnace tract in Cumberland and Adams counties, the largest tract secured for the state in years, the search of title and other work having been completed. When this is done the state will have over 1,000,000 acres of forest land and will add to its holdings a property which will be considerable of an income producer.

THE REVIEW

No official announcement has been made of the day for the grand review but it is generally supposed that it will be held on Thursday. Gov. Tener did not arrive in camp on Monday as was expected and was not at headquarters until this afternoon. The delay in his arrival explains the tardiness in announcing the day for the big review.

FREE EXHIBIT

A free exhibit of art work will be given by the pupils of the Summer School in Glatfelter Hall on Friday afternoon. The public is invited.

T. R. MEN CALL PA. CONVENTION

All Progressives Invited to Meet in Chicago.

FLINN AMONG THE SIGNERS

Will Name Delegates to the National Convention, Which Meets the Same Day.

Philadelphia, July 23.—Roosevelt followers of this state and all "the Progressives of Pennsylvania without regard to previous party affiliations" are invited by the Progressive national committee for Pennsylvania to participate in the Pennsylvania Progressive state convention to be held in Chicago on the morning of Aug. 5. The national Progressive convention opens later on the same day in Chicago.

This invitation, signed by the Progressive national committee for Pennsylvania, E. A. Van Valkenburg, William Flinn, Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States, and William Draper Lewis, dean of the University of Pennsylvania's law school, announced also that at the Pennsylvania mass convention the delegates to the national Progressive convention would be selected.

These national committeemen announced that, while Pennsylvania would be entitled to but thirty-eight votes in the national convention, a larger number than that might be selected as national delegates, each delegate to have an equitable voting power.

Ziba T. Moore, one of the Philadelphia Roosevelt leaders, said that probably one hundred and fifty Pennsylvanians would be on hand in Chicago to take part in the state mass convention. It is planned to have these men go to Chicago on Aug. 3 in a "Bill Flinn" special train. Those desiring to attend the convention were requested to write or wire at once to Mr. Flinn.

The call for the mass convention in part was as follows:

"To the Progressives of Pennsylvania, without regard to previous party affiliations.

"We are instructed to announce the following plan for the holding of the Pennsylvania Progressive state convention and for the naming of delegates to the national Progressive convention to be held at Chicago, Ill., on Monday, Aug. 5, 1912:

"Pennsylvania Progressives who desire to attend the national Progressive convention will meet in mass convention in the Congress hotel, green room, Monday, Aug. 5, at 11 a. m., for the purpose of selecting delegates to represent the state of Pennsylvania in the national Progressive convention.

"The views and wishes of the Pennsylvania delegates and alternates to the late Republican national convention at Chicago, who consistently and courageously declined to recognize that convention as a legally or honestly organized body, have been given special consideration. The plan herein proposed has the approval of a large majority of them.

"Since their return from Chicago the Pennsylvania delegates and alternates to the late Republican national convention have had the opportunity of personally learning the sentiment of their respective districts regarding the formation of a Progressive party, and they are therefore especially qualified to represent that sentiment at Chicago. It is therefore suggested that all those delegates and alternates to the late Republican national convention, who go to Chicago for participation in the formation of the new Progressive party, should be selected by the Pennsylvania Progressive mass convention as delegates to the Progressive national convention. While Pennsylvania will be entitled to but thirty-eight (38) votes in the national convention, it is the prevailing opinion that a larger number of delegates should be seated in the convention, each delegate to have an equitable voting power. By this method many Pennsylvanians may be selected by the Progressive mass convention, in addition to the before-mentioned delegate and alternate, to sit as delegates in the Progressive national convention as representing the state of Pennsylvania."

French Troops Defeat Moors.
Fez, Morocco, July 23.—A French column sent out to chastise marauding bands to the northwest of Fez, by a cunning maneuver forced the tribesmen to cross a ravine under a concentrated fire from rifles, maxims and artillery. Two hundred of the tribesmen were killed in a few minutes. The French lost three, of whom two were officers, and seven wounded.

EMPEROR MUTSUHITO.

Ruler of Japan Who Is Critically Ill.

JAPAN'S EMPEROR MUCH IMPROVED

Official Bulletin Gives Mikado's Temperature as 102.4.

Tokio, July 23.—The bulletins issued from the palace by the court physicians reporting the improved condition of health of Mutsuhito, the emperor of Japan, were received with satisfaction throughout the capital.

The Nichi Nichi, one of the leading newspapers, publishes a report that entertainments are to be resumed.

A note of warning, however, is sounded by one specialist, who is quoted as saying that this is only the first stage in the emperor's malady, and advising against over-optimism because the second and third stages of the disease must be passed through before full confidence of his majesty's recovery can be restored.

It was reported that the emperor was at one time sufficiently conscious to be able to speak intelligently with the chief court physicians.

Crowds of school children gathered outside the palace grounds, where they prayed for the recovery of the emperor.

DENEEN WILL SUPPORT TAFT

Illinois Governor Considers President Regular Nominee.

Springfield, Ill., July 23.—The committee of five "Progressive" Republicans who were appointed by Medill McCormick to wait on Governor Deneen and ascertain whether he would support Taft or Roosevelt for president, were informed by the governor that he considered Taft the regular nominee for president, and that as such he felt obligated to support his candidacy.

Secretary of State Dolye, Auditor of Public Accounts McCulloch and Attorney General Stead gave the committee the same answer as did Governor Deneen.

In his statement Governor Deneen said: "It is plain that there is only one course I can pursue. Having sought the support of Republicans and having been chosen their candidate for governor, no opportunity is afforded Republican electors to change their mind."

"If there are Republicans in Illinois who cannot support the national ticket, it must be a strange situation indeed if they cannot support men whose nomination they do not question. I am legally the Republican nominee for governor and am morally bound by obligation to that position."

Wickersham Asks For Funds.
Washington, July 23.—Depletion of his trust busting purse was reported to the house by Attorney General Wickersham in asking an appropriation of $20,000 to meet a deficiency incurred in the "powder trust" suit. He also asked $10,000 for United States marshals.

NATION WIDE SEARCH ON

New York, July 23.—Hearings before the coroner for the five men accused or held as witnesses in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, were continued until Thursday at the request of District Attorney Whitman, that the nation-wide search for the gunmen who did the actual killing might continue.

The district attorney expects more evidence of convincing character by Thursday and then also will be able to give the authority for the statements he makes against the prisoners.

Louis "Bridge" Webber, a gambler, was held as an accessory in the murder of Rosenthal by Coroner Feinberg. The hearings of Louis Libby and Willie Shapiro, chauffeurs and owners of the "murder car," and Jack Rose were continued. Sam Paul and Jack Sullivan, a former newsboy, were held as material witnesses.

Counsel for Webber and Paul later obtained from Justice Giegerich, of the state supreme court, a writ of habeas corpus, ordering the warden of the Tombs to produce the men in court. Counsel alleged that the two men were being detained without due process of law.

Commissioner Dougherty, the first and only witness, testified that Jack Rose, following his arrest, admitted to him that the gray car, known as "the murder car," had been hired by him on the night Rosenthal was murdered in front of the Hotel Metropole. Dougherty declared that he had also questioned other persons (whom he would not name), whose statements, he said, made it impossible for Rose to deny successfully his part in the crime.

Dougherty further testified that he had secured evidence positive enough to involve Libby in the murder, and Coroner Feinberg ordered the owner of the "murder car" held until Thursday, when it was announced additional evidence would be presented against him.

Dougherty testified that after his arrest Sam Paul had told him that Sullivan was the first to inform him of Rosenthal's murder. Previous to that, Dougherty said, Paul had heard of no plans to get rid of Rosenthal, according to Paul's story. Paul had said that he was asleep in a hotel when Sullivan woke him up to tell him of the murder. The commissioner testified that other evidence in his possession, however, had justified him in asking that Paul be held on a charge of murder.

The nation-wide search for the gunmen who killed Rosenthal was begun. The names of the gunmen are known to the police officials through a grilling third degree given several prisoners now in custody in connection with the case.

The band that were engaged in the killing after it had been carefully rehearsed in an uptown gambling house are believed to have fled within a day or two, convinced that the "police system" would not be able to protect them.

Some of the East Side "characters" whom the detectives are searching for are "Lefty" Lous, a gunman; "Whitney" Lewis, Harry Vallon, gamblers; Sam Schepps, a gangster, and "Itsky," another gangster.

Police Lieutenant Charles A. Becker, head of the "strong arm" squad, whom Rosenthal directly accused in sharing profits from gambling, was transferred to a Bronx precinct, where he will do desk duty.

REPORT PLOT TO KILL KING

Secret Arrests of Anarchists Said to Have Been Made in Rome.

Rome, July 27.—Reports were current that a plot to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel had been discovered by the police.

The department of justice refused to comment on the reports, but it is known that a number of secret arrests have been made during the last three days.

The prisoners are all said to be anarchists.

"Movie" Owner Must Pay $500.

Trenton, N. J., July 23.—The state supreme court in an opinion by Justice Kallisch sustained a verdict of $500 obtained by Minerva Miller, colored, against the proprietor of a moving picture show in Passaic for alleged discrimination on account of her race. She tendered the usual admission fee of five cents, but was told that the price for negroes was twenty-five cents.

Dies From Wound Caused by Catfish.
Havre de Grace, Md., July 23.—Samuel A. Hessay, of Gunpowder, died in a Baltimore hospital of blood poisoning, which was superinduced by a wound from the fin of a catfish. Hessay was fishing last week when the wound was inflicted. His hand became greatly swollen, and his condition grew gradually worse until his death.

Historic Blackguards

King John, Who Did a Great Deed in Spite of Himself

A LEAN man, clad in royal robes and walking with a shambling gait, entered his palace on the afternoon of June 15, 1215, followed by a crowd of laughing courtiers. He and his attendants seemed vastly amused over something that had just happened and which they professed to regard as a fine joke.

But the moment the regally clad man reached his private apartments in the palace, away from the eyes of the public, his mask of false gaiety was cast aside. He hurled himself upon the floor, screaming, raving and howling fearful blasphemies, foaming at the mouth and biting like a mad dog at the rushes that strewn the floor.

Nor was this burst of insane fury without an excuse. For the man was a tyrant; and that day had been forced to sign the death-warrant of tyranny. He was John, king of England. More than a century and a half had passed since William the Conqueror had won England, beginning the blend of Norman and Saxon races and giving the English a new line of kings and nobility. Henry II, king of England, had several sons, all of whom hated their father and at various times conspired against him. John was the youngest. From his poverty he became known as "Lackland." The eldest son, Geoffrey, died during Henry's lifetime, leaving one son, little Prince Arthur. Geoffrey's next youngest brother, Richard (known as "Lion Heart"), became king of England at Henry's death. He spent nearly all his ten-year reign fighting in other countries, and died childless.

During Richard's absence from England John had tried to seize the crown for himself. On Richard's return he had to fly for his own life before the wrath of the brother he had striven to supplant. Richard, however, forgave him, and named him as heir to the throne. On "Lion Heart's" death John became king of England in 1199. Some of the nobles tried to make his nephew, young Prince Arthur, king in John's place. Civil war broke out. John was victorious. Arthur was captured and thrown into prison. John is said to have had the sixteen-year-old boy's eyes put out and then to have murdered him. The king of France made war on John to avenge this alleged murder, and seized nearly all England's French possessions.

John, forced thus to confine his tyranny to his own country, proceeded to make his people's lives miserable. He seized at will the few possessions of the poor and laid heavy taxes on the rich. He insulted and ill-treated the clergy, defying the pope himself. The church thereupon placed an "interdict" on the blackguard and his realm. His holiness also called upon the Christian rulers to unite against John. This last danger scared the cowardly tyrant into submission. But he refused to make his people's hardships lighter.

Then it was that the powerful barons, led by Stephen Langton, archbishop of Canterbury, presented a code of laws for the betterment of the people and for the curbing of oppression. They called this document the Magna Charta (Great Charter). Among other reforms, the charter provided fair trial for every prisoner, authorized the nation to resist unjust royal demands and put the will of the people ahead of a mere king's wishes. The church's liberty was to be respected and no man's possessions were to be wrongfully seized by the crown.

John was asked to sign the Magna Charta. He refused. The barons and the common people combined to force him to sign it. Frightened by their power and his own weakness, John at last consented. Thus was English liberty born and the rights of man were established. John met the barons at a meadow, near Runnymede, on June 15, 1215, saved his vanity by pretending to make a jest of the matter, signed the charter and—safe in his palace—gave way to a fit of manicial rage.

Though he had been coerced into performing an act of splendid justice by signing the Magna Charta, John had not the faintest idea of keeping his promises to the barons. He called on foreign hired soldiers to help him crush his rebellious subjects. The English retaliated by asking a French prince to come over and be their king. The land was once more rent by civil war. John showed no mercy to his own country, but desolated and wrecked it wherever his armies could find a foothold. At the climax of the struggle his mind gave way. He sickened and, on October 19, 1216, died. Some historians believe he was poisoned.

IS MOST POPULAR OF BOOKS

Bible Holds This Proud Position Partly on Account of Its Pure Literature.

The Bible is the most popular book in the world on account of its pure literature. Say what we will concerning the advancement of modern methods of style and beauties of expression, I doubt if anyone will approach some of the passages which can be found in the Psalms, in the Prophets, or in the Book of Revelation.

Considering the fact that these writings have come to us through translations, it is astonishing how beautiful and power have been preserved. There is no book quoted oftener than the Bible. Passages have been woven entire into our own literature. No writer of any prominence has ever been able to escape borrowing from the Bible. The reading of it has affected the style of writers like Ruskin and Browning and Milton. Gladstone repeatedly acknowledged his indebtedness to the Bible for his phraseology. Charles Fox said more than once that he owed to the perusal of the Bible his vocabulary. The variety of expression to be found on the part of the different writers is strangely commingled with unity of expression due in large part to the fact that all of these men are writing with at least one great purpose in view. For we have in the Bible a style which is more or less uniform from beginning to end—even the style of expression.

Everyone Needs It

The People's and Huber's Drug Stores are having a Wonderful Sale of Thompson's Barosma, the Mighty Kidney and Liver Specific.

And no wonder, when they offer to refund your money if it doesn't cure any disease of the kidneys, liver or bladder, backache, sideache, nervousness or any weakness of the kidneys.

But Thompson's Barosma has made so many almost miraculous cures that The People's and Huber's Drug Stores are pretty certain not to have any returns.

Here are a few instances:

Frank K. Sturges, Sturtevant, Crawford county, Pa., was cured of Bright's disease six years ago and only took six bottles. He has had no bad symptoms since.

"I had kidney trouble and enlargement of the liver and spleen. I took Thompson's Barosma. The first bottle reduced the measurements around my stomach from 45 to 36 inches, and several bottles completely cured me."

—M. S. Langworthy, Tryonville, Pa.

After suffering the terrible agony of rheumatism for ten years, being compelled to use crutches, J. N. Dunn, Troy Center, Pa., after all hope had left him, and he had no faith in any remedy, took six bottles of Thompson's Barosma, threw away his crutches and went to work, for the first time in ten years.

These statements are absolutely true and the Thompson Medical Co., Titusville, Pa., will prove it. Then why should anyone suffer in the face of such facts? How can they suffer when The People's and Huber's Drug Stores guarantee to refund the money if a cure is not effected? Thompson's Barosma 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

JUDGE HANFORD SENDS RESIGNATION

Jurist Who Barred Socialist Quits Under Fire.

Seattle, Wash., July 23. — United States District Judge Cornelius H. Hanford, whose conduct on the bench has been under investigation for almost a month by a sub-committee of the house judiciary committee, telegraphed his resignation to President Taft.

Judge Hanford gives ill health as the reason for his resignation. In a statement to the public Judge Hanford says in part:

"In the investigation which has been conducted by a sub-committee of the house of representatives much testimony has been given by witnesses who know me and by others who do not. A judge is never so sure of being right as when his work has been criticized fairly."

The charges were the outgrowth of Judge Hanford depriving Leonard Olsen, of Seattle, of citizenship because he was a Socialist. Congressman Berger, the Socialist member from Milwaukee, started impeachment proceedings, charging the judge "with high crimes and misdemeanors, a long series of corrupt and unlawful decisions, and with being a habitual drunkard."

Later it was charged against Hanford that he allowed an exorbitant fee of $140,000 to Kerr & McCord, attorneys for the receivers of the Pacific American Fisheries company and the Pacific Packing and Navigation company.

FATALLY INJURED BY CRANE

Pottsville, Pa., July 23. — A traveling electric crane at the Eastern Steel company's mill pursued Clyde Snyder, eighteen years old, as if it was impelled by human vengeance, and not withstanding Snyder's efforts to escape the iron monster, he was fatally injured, his skull being crushed.

Snyder was standing on a pile of beams, when the crane swung toward him. He jumped, but fell on his hands at the bottom of the pile, and the top beams were thrown over on him by the crane.

Break Jail to Escape Heat.

Raleigh, N. C., July 23. — Twelve prisoners in the Irredell jail, near here, appealed to the jailer to be allowed corridor privileges because of the intense heat. While the jailer slept one of the twelve sawed the bars and escaped by throwing their beds to the ground and diving into them. They told the two that remained that they objected to the heat.

900 Mine Workers on Strike.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 23. — Asserting that they were docked excessively, 900 men and boys employed at the Ashley colliery of the Lehigh & Ashley-Barre Coal company went on strike.

MOTHER SEES GIRL DROWN

WAS AFTER TENNIS BALL

Wades From the Beach and Sinks Before Boy Companion Can Reach Her.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 23. — While a widowed mother and two sisters looked on in despair from the shore, Margaret McCarron, fourteen years old, of Philadelphia, was drowned here in the Thoroughfare under most distressing circumstances.

The girl and four small boys, in two rowboats, had left the foot of Morris avenue on the Thoroughfare side and gone across to a beach, within plain sight of the place of starting.

The girl and Howard Deal were in one boat and three boys, Joe Cooney, Francis Cooney and John Deal were in the other skiff. All are Philadelphians in Atlantic City for the summer.

Margaret McCarron could not swim, but thought she could, and was anxious to show her prowess before the boys. One of the lads quoted her as saying: "Huh! You fellows can't swim, not as well as a girl."

They were then wading along the beach. Margaret threw a tennis ball far out into the water and started after it. Presumably the girl thought the water was shallow all the way, but there is a sharp declivity. She stepped over this, found herself over her head and screamed for help, became excited and went down.

Howard Deal, twelve years old, struck out after his companion and tried to rescue her, but in her panic she merely caught her arms around his neck and dragged him down. The boy was dragged under twice, and finally to save his life he had to free himself. Such was his exhaustion after this struggle that but for the aid of his companions he would have been drowned.

The struggle was witnessed from the shore at the foot of Morris avenue by the family of the girl and about 200 other women, attracted by the mother's screams. As Mrs. McCarron saw her daughter throw up her arms and cry out in agony for the last time the gray-haired mother dashed down to the water's edge and perhaps for restraining hands would have struck out through the Thoroughfare.

From the boathouse at the foot of Iowa avenue the children's battle for life was seen by boatmen, who tried to start a motor boat to the rescue, but the engine broke down.

The body of the girl was swept away by the tide and has not been recovered.

Margaret McCarron had a narrow escape from death on Sunday, when she was caught in the heavy storm in a small boat and lost both her oars. Another twelve-year-old boy, Frank Steel man, succeeded in towing her to the shore.

DRYS WIN A VICTORY

Senate Committee Favors Ban on "Wet" Goods Shipments.

Washington, July 23. — An important victory was achieved by the "drys" when the senate judiciary committee voted favorably to report the Kenyon bill forbidding the shipment of intoxicating liquors, in original packages or otherwise, from "wet" into "dry" states.

An amendment provides that the "wet" goods shall be subject to state prohibition laws "before delivery to consignee."

SANATORIUM IS DEMOLISHED

Mob Wrecks Nearly Completed Structure Near Dublin, Ireland.

Dublin, Ireland, July 23. — A nearly completed tuberculosis sanatorium at Lucan, near Dublin, being constructed by Lady Aberdeen and the Women's National Health association, was demolished by irate neighbors.

A mob armed with ropes and pickaxes first tore off the roof and then threw down the walls, leaving nothing but a heap of wreckage.

11,000 Volts Fail to Kill Lineman.

New York, July 23. — Although 11,000 volts of electricity passed through his body, Edward Flanagan, a railroad lineman, is still alive, and the probability is that he will survive the shock. Flanagan was working on a cross beam, which carries the electric wires supplying current to the third rail of the New York, Boston & Port Chester railroad in the Bronx, and fell from his perch and landed on a network of wires below.

Cannibalism in Russia.

St. Petersburg, July 23. — Cannibalism is prevalent in the famine stricken district of Russia, according to official reports received by the government. Parents driven by starvation are eating the bodies of their own children. At a small village in southern Russia one peasant killed his family of four, one by one, and ate his victims. He subsequently confessed and was knotted to death.

ENGLAND SCARED BY KAISER'S PLANS

Churchill Asks $5,000,000 to Strengthen Naval Forces.

London, July 23. — Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, in introducing the supplementary naval appropriation bill of $5,000,000 in the house of commons, said the direct cause of the increase in expenditure on the British navy was to be found in the new German navy law, the main feature of which was the increase in the striking force of ships of all classes.

The effect of the new German navy law would, he said, be that nearly four-fifths of the entire German navy would be maintained in full permanent commission and instantly ready for war. The first lord continued:

"Such preparation is remarkable and as far as I am aware finds no example in the previous practice of modern naval powers."

Mr. Churchill then announced the British shipbuilding program for the next five years, saying that five battleships were to be constructed next year and four in each of the following years.

MAY SUCCEED WILEY

It Is Believed President Will Name Dr. James Beal, of Ohio.

Washington, July 23. — Members of the Ohio congressional delegation are confident that President Taft will in a few days nominate Dr. James H. Beal, of Scio, Ohio, to be chief of the bureau of chemistry, succeeding Dr. Harvey W. Wiley.

White House officials would not confirm the report that Dr. Beal had been chosen for the post, but it was admitted that he was more prominent in the president's mind than any other man.

How a "Niece" May Be a Teacher.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 23. — In reply to an inquiry of the school board of Pittston, Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, state superintendent of schools, says a niece is a relative of an uncle within the meaning of the new school code, and where said uncle is a member of a school board she cannot be appointed a teacher unless she receives the required vote in such cases.

My Lady of the North

"Naturally I have had small intimacy with him after what occurred at Mountain View, but he is still retained upon General Sheridan's staff. At Mrs. Brennan's request we breakfasted together yesterday morning, but I believe he is at the other end of the lines today."

We sat down upon a bank, and for the time I forgot disaster while listening to his story of love and his plans for the future. His one thought of Celia and the Northern home so soon now to be made ready for her coming. The sun sank lower into the western sky, causing Caton to draw down his fatigue cap until his glazed visor almost completely hid his eyes. With buoyant enthusiasm he talked on, each word drawing me closer to him in bonds of friendship. But the time of parting came, and after we had promised to correspond with each other, I had stood and watched while he rode rapidly back down the road we had traversed together. At the summit of the hill he turned and waved his cap, then disappeared, leaving me alone, with Edith's face more clearly than ever a torture to my memory of defeat—her face, fair, smiling, alluring, yet the face of another man's wife.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

My Lady of the North.

I walked the next mile thoughtfully, pondering over those vague hopes and plans with which Caton's optimism had inspired me. Suddenly there sounded behind me the thud of hoofs, while I heard a merry peal of laughter, accompanied by gay exchange of words. I drew aside, leading my horse into a small thicket beside the road to permit the cavalcade to pass. It was a group of perhaps a dozen—three or four Federal officers, the remainder ladies, whose bright dresses and smiling faces made a most winsome sight. They glanced curiously aside at me as they galloped past. But none passed, and I merely glanced at them with vague interest, my thoughts elsewhere. Suddenly a horse seemed to draw back from out of the center of the fast disappearing party.

I had led my limping horse out into the road once more to resume my journey, paying scarcely the slightest attention to what was taking place, for my head was again throbbing to the hot pulse of the sun. The party of strangers rode slowly away into the enveloping dust cloud, and I had forgotten them, when a low, sweet voice spoke close beside me: "Captain Wayne, I know you cannot have forgotten me."

She was leaning down from the saddle, and as I glanced eagerly up into her dear eyes they were swimming with tears.

"Forgotten! Never for one moment," I exclaimed; "yet I failed to perceive your presence until you spoke."

"You appeared deeply buried in thought as we rode by, but I could not leave you without a word when I knew you must feel so bad. Oh, but you, Captain Wayne, you have youth and love to inspire you—for your mother yet lives. Truly it makes my heart throb to think of the upbuilding which awaits you men of the South. It is through such as you—soldiers trained by stern duty—that these desolated states are destined to rise above the ashes of war into a greatness never before equaled. I feel that now, in this supreme hour of sacrifice, the men and women of the South are to exhibit before the world a courage greater than that of the battlefield. It is to be the marvel of the nation, and the thought and pride of it should make you strong."

"It may indeed be so; I can but believe it, as the prophecy comes from your lips. I might even find courage to do my part in this redemption were you ever at hand to inspire."

She laughed gently. "I am not a Virginian, Captain Wayne, but a most loyal daughter of the North; yet if I so inspire you by my mere words, surely it is not so far to my home but you might journey there to listen to my further words of wisdom."

"I have not forgotten the permission already granted me, and it is a temptation not easily cast aside. You return North soon?"

"Within a week."

I hardly knew what prompted me to voice my next question—Pate, perhaps, weary of being so long mocked—for I felt small interest in her probable answer.

"Do you expect your husband's release from duty by that time?"

She gave a quick start of surprise, drawing in her breath as though suddenly choked. Then the rich color overspread her face. "My husband?" she ejaculated in voice barely audible, "my husband? Surely you cannot mean Major Brennan?"

"But I certainly do," I said, wondering what might be wrong. "Whom else could I mean?"

"And you thought that?" she asked incredulously. "Why, how could you?"

"How should I have thought otherwise?" I exclaimed, my eyes eagerly searching her downcast face. "Why, Caton told me it was so the night I was before Sheridan; he confirmed it again in conversation less than an hour ago. Colgate, my Lieutenant, who met you in a Baltimore hospital, referred to him the same way. If I have been deceived through all these months, surely everything and every body conspired to that end—you bore the same name; you told me plainly you were married; you wore a wedding-ring; you resided while at camp in his quarters; you called each other Frank and Edith. From first to last not one word has been spoken by any one to cause me to doubt that you were his wife."

"I recall starting to explain all this to you once," she said, striving vainly to appear at ease. "It was when we were interrupted by the sudden coming upon us of Mr. and Mrs. Bungay. Yet I supposed you knew, that you would have learned the facts from others. The last time we were together I told you I did not wholly understand you. It is no wonder, when you thought that of me."

"I am going to tell you my story, Captain Wayne. It is not a pleasant task under these circumstances, yet one I owe you as well as myself. This may prove our last meeting, and we must not part under the shadow of a mistake, however innocently it may have originated. I am the only child of Edwin Adams, a manufacturer, of Stonington, Connecticut. My father was also for several terms a member of Congress from that State. As the death of my mother occurred when I was but five years old, all my father's love was lavished upon me, and I grew up surrounded by every advantage which abundant means and high social position could supply. During all those earlier years my playmate and most intimate companion was Charles Brennan, a younger brother of the Major, and the son of Judge David Brennan of the State Supreme Court. As we grew older his friendship for me ripened into love, a feeling which I found it impossible to return. I liked him greatly, valued him most highly, continued his constant companion, yet experienced no desire for closer relationship. My position was rendered the more difficult as it had long been the dream of the heads of both houses that our two families, with their contingent estates, should be thus united, and constant urging tried my decision severely. Nor would Charles Brennan give up hope. When he was twenty and I barely seventeen a most serious accident occurred—a runaway—in which Charles heroically preserved my life, but himself received injuries, from which death in a short time was inevitable. In those last lingering days of suffering, but one hope, one ambition, seemed to possess his mind—the desire to make me his wife, and leave me the fortune which was his through the will of his mother. I cannot explain to you, Captain Wayne, the struggle I passed through, seeking to do what was right and best; but finally, moved by my sympathy, eager to soothe his final hours of suffering, and urged by my father, I consented to gratify his wish, and we were united in marriage while he was on his deathbed. Two days later he passed away."

She paused, her voice faltering, her eyes moist with unshed tears. Scarce knowing it, my hand sought hers, where it rested against the saddle.

"His brother," she paused slowly, "now Major Brennan, but at that time a prosperous banker, in Hartford, a man nearly double the age of Charles, was named as administrator of the estate, to retain its management until I should attain the age of twenty-one. Less than a year later my father also died. The final settlement of his estate was likewise entrusted to Frank Brennan, and he was made my guardian. Quite naturally I became a resident of the Brennan household, upon the same standing as a daughter, being legally a ward of my husband's brother. Major Brennan's age, and his thoughtful kindness to me, won my respect, and I gradually came to look upon him almost as an elder brother, turning to him in every time of trouble for encouragement and help. It was the necessity of our business relation which first compelled me to come South and join Major Brennan in camp; as he was unable to obtain leave of absence, I was obliged to make the trip. Not until that time, Captain Wayne—indeed, not until after our experience at Mountain View—did I fully realize that Major Brennan looked upon me otherwise than as a guardian upon his ward. The awakening period pained me greatly, especially as I was obliged to disappoint him deeply; yet I seek to retain his friendship, for my memory of his long kindness must ever abide. I am sure you will understand, and not consider me unwomanly in thus making you a confidant."

"I can never be sufficiently grateful that you have thus trusted me," I said with an earnestness that caused her to lower her questioning eyes. "It has been a strange misunderstanding between us, Mrs. Brennan, but your Words have brought a new hope to one disheartened Confederate soldier. I must be content with hope, yet I am rich compared with thousands of others; infinitely rich in comparison with what I dreamed myself an hour ago. I held out my hand. "There will come a day when I shall answer your invitation to the North."

"You are on your way home?"

"Yes; to take a fresh hold upon life, trusting that sometime in the early future I may feel worthy to come to you."

"Worthy?" she echoed the word, a touch of scorn in her voice, her eyes dark with feeling. "Worthy? Captain Wayne, I sometimes think you the most unselfish man I ever knew. Must the sacrifices, then, always be made by you? Can you not conceive it possible that I also might like to yield up something? Is it possible you deem me a woman to whom money is a god?"

"No," I said, my heart bounding to the scarce hidden meaning of her impetuous words, "nor have the sacrifices always been mine; you were once my prisoner."

She bent down, her very soul in her eyes, and rested one white hand upon my shoulder. For an instant we read each other's heart in silence, then shyly she said, "I am still your prisoner."

THE END.

TRAVELER'S TALES.

A gentleman whose travel talks are known throughout the world tells the following on himself:

"I was booked for a lecture one night at a little place in Scotland four miles from a railway station."

"The chairman of the occasion, after introducing me as 'the man who's come here to broaden our intellects,' said that he felt that a wee bit of prayer would not be out of place."

"Oh Lord," he continued, 'put it into the heart of this man to speak the truth, the hale truth, and naething but the truth, and gie us grace to understand it.'"

"Then, with a glance at me, the chairman said, 'I've been a traveler myself!'"—Lippincott's.

Quite Matter of Fact.

An article in one of the magazines on "The Menace of Cape Race" recalls a little story. The priest at Trepassay, which is near the dangerous cape, was dining with Bishop Power of St. John.

"How will your people get along this winter?" asked the bishop.

"Very well, my lord," was the priest's cheerful answer, "with the help of God and a few wrecks."

The "Execution."

It isn't so much the song he sings, As the way the singer sings it; It isn't the ball the pitcher flings, So much as the way he flings it.

Unexplained.

"I wonder what those London suffragettes were throwing at?"

"Why, the papers are full of it."

"I haven't seen it mentioned."

"Why, every paper tells how they broke the plate glass windows."

"I know it; but not a single paper tells what they were throwing at."

Bringing Down the Average.

Mrs. Gotham—I am informed that the New York telephone calls average a minute and a half in length.

Mr. Gotham—Yes, dear; you see, there are so many men using the telephone that it brings down the average."

Barberous.

Browne—Dabbler has just had a heavy weight lifted from his mind.

Browne—No. He's had his hair cut?—Judge.

Persuasion.

"What made Mr. Chuggins buy an automobile?"

"His wife persuaded him by calling his attention to the economy of having gasoline on hand to clean gloves with."

And Maybe the Maid.

Young Mistress—Do you think my Ernest really loves me, Emmy?

THIS new serial story we are about to run is a bit of Down-East fiction with the chief character one of the brightest and best of women—one who had survived the wreck of her own happiness to be strengthened for helping others to hold theirs. She is housekeeper for the town minister, and is a shrewd, nimble witted and generous member of society. She has much to do in directing the trying love affair between the pastor and a member of another "fold," and the development of story is
